1. On 15 November 1950 it was seen that work was in progress on the construction of a new railroad line branching off from the Jucterbog-Berlin line toward the east about 2½ km south of Grossbeeren. Three large power shovels which had been brought to the construction site with mobile track construction ships were seen on 25 November 1950. A tool dump and a canteen were being erected. Old rails and large quantities of new and old ties were also seen at the building site after 28 November. Local residents believe that a rail bypass around the Western Sectors of Berlin is to be built there. *

* [redacted] Comment. The project concerned was reported previously. [redacted]
